Airline Pilots Strike On Eve Of Holidays

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike by some 1,500 pilots today shut down American Airlines, grounding the second of the nation's major air carriers on the eve of the holiday travel rush.

The Air Lines Pilots Assn. struck midnight Friday.

Negotiations here broke down with an ALPA spokesman's statement that "It looks like a long, hard strike."

Stemming from an 18-month dispute, the strike posed a handicap for Christmas travelers.

Eastern Air Lines flight engineers and machinists walked out over wage demands Nov. 24 and that line has been tied up 20 days.

An American Airlines spokesman said that as much as one-third of the nation's daily air travel was affected by the walk-outs at AA and EAL. American has a daily passenger load of 24,000 and claims to be the biggest carrier.

A pilots union official said in Chicago that "The strike could go on for as long as six months." He accused American of "extreme stubbornness," but an American spokesman termed the AA offer "the best in the industry."

Lovett Edwards, chief mediator and chairman of the National Mediation Board, said:

"I thought we had enough on the table to reach an agreement, but an impasse has been reached on working conditions. It does not look like a quick settlement will be effected."

The ALPA said that American has offered a contract which equals the Eastern Air Lines settlement in money for both jet and piston engine operations. However, the pilots said working conditions were not measured up to the Eastern contract.

The pilots contend the current American pay scale, ranging from $400 to $1,600 monthly, is lower than wages of other airlines. However, an American spokesman said top pay for pilots would jump from $1,602 monthly to $2,334 if the American offer was to be accepted.

27 Tortured Victims Can Still Smile

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP)—The wonder of it is that they can still smile—these 27 women who underwent the tortures of the damned as the human guinea pigs in Nazi experiments.

The women, flown in Thursday from Warsaw, chattered happily when the big plane dropped down from above the clouds to give them their first view of America.

But physically, it was a painful exit from the plane at Idlewild Airport. It was the half leading the lame, and here is why:

At one time their legs had been cut open, their bones broken or shattered. Poisonous bacilli, or gangrene-causing material, such as glass, wood, dirt and soiled rags were sealed into their legs.

It happened 1942-44, at Ravensbrück in East Germany. German doctors selected 70 healthy young women—members of the Polish resistance—to test the power of sulfa drugs in fighting serious infections developing from untreated battle wounds.

As the victims neared death, the sulfa drugs were applied.

Again, the wonder of it: of the 70 women, 53 survived.

What condition are they in now? They have a variety of diseases, such as cardiac ailments, osteomyelitis, pernicious anemia, tuberculosis, hypertension, asthma. And they have constant leg pains.

Governor Sees No Benefit From Probe

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he doubted if further hearings into alleged subversive influences behind racial unrest in Arkansas would serve any useful purpose at this time.

The governor said, however, it was probable a 3-day investigation which ended yesterday achieved a good end in educating Arkansians to the threat of Communism in their own state.

"If it develops that these hearings create an awareness that there actually is a Communist movement active in Arkansas, it will have accomplished one of its purposes," Faubus said.

Faubus said he personally was certain Communists had earmarked Arkansas as an area for intense activity, particularly in the field of race relations.

The governor said he had not studied testimony delivered before the Legislative Council's special education committee, but he understood some of it was quite effective.

"I agreed with the witness Johnson (Manning Johnson, Negro Communist) that the Negro Communist movement in Arkansas is a very definite, Red right institution, not only active, but also effective instruments than party members themselves," Faubus said.

Asked if he thought further hearings should be held to detail the Arkansas phase of the alleged Red conspiracy, which the hearings explored only as a part of the overall scheme, Faubus said: "Not unless such activity can be documented and pinpointed as to individuals involved. There is always a lot of criticism of such an investigation and I feel specific information would be needed if more hearings are to be held."

Faubus said he had studied the Communist movement since his days at Commonwealth College, a now-defunct Red right institution which he attended briefly in 1935.

Communists have changed their tactics since the 1930s when they concentrated on the masses, Faubus said. "Now they are working on political and religious leaders."

"I don't believe the Communists have as large a membership now as they had in the 1930s but the movement is more dangerous, because the persons indoctrinated are in positions of leadership."

Then he added: "I don't think the United States has a great deal to worry about concerning Communism, except in the event of a final struggle with Russia. The atheistic nature of Communism will keep it from gaining a strong hold on this country. But in the event of war these people could do infinite damage."

Millions Spent on Discarded Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force spent about $14 million dollars on the Rascal before that missile program was dropped earlier this month.

The Rascal was originally designed for use by B47 medium jet bombers. It was carried aloft and could be launched from the bomber or some miles away from the target.

The Air Force dropped the program under its policy of discarding marginal weapons systems.

Test Ban Talks End for Christmas

GENEVA (AP)—The three nation talks on a nuclear test ban adjourned today for a two-week Christmas recess.

At the last meeting before the recess, U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth submitted technical program for the staffing and equipment of a worldwide chain of observer posts. It will be discussed after the conference resumes on Jan. 5.

President Tells About Satellite

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower strode dramatically into the center of a glittering White House diplomatic gathering to announce that the United States had placed a nearly 9,000-pound satellite in orbit.

He gave his dinner guests a top-ranking diplomatic from 41 other nations—the first word of the great scientific advance Thursday night.

The news that a mighty Atlas missile was in orbit reached the President at the White House minutes before he was due to go down to the state dinner.

He decided to share his secret with his dinner guests even before his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, made the news known to the rest of the world.

But he saved the dramatic moment until he had shaken hands with each of the 78 guests assembled in the East Ballroom.

The red-coated Marine Corps band, unaware of the President's plan, had struck up a march for the chief executive to lead his guests from the ballroom to the state dining room.

But Eisenhower didn't follow the schedule. Instead, he turned back into the middle of the ballroom. There, standing beneath three glittering chandeliers and in the dazzle of an 18-foot Christmas tree, he announced that he had something interesting to tell his guests.

Simply, the President reported that the United States had gotten a satellite of almost 9,000 pounds into orbit and it was expected to stay there about 25 days.

The diplomats applauded. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said the Russians had a missile capable of going 8,700 miles. U. S. officials discounted the word "capable," discounting Communist possession of any such operational weapon for at least two years.

American authorities deny Thursday night's launching was a propaganda move. They said it would carry out important communications experiments.

Atlas is big enough to be seen with the naked eye by the millions in the heavily populated areas of the earth over which it was aimed. And its fame, recorded in the papers, is highly convenient for worldwide propaganda.

The spectacular shot drew such comment as this:

Karl Bossart, test director at Convair-Astronautics, which built the Atlas, can reach the Moon or, with something else on top of it, the Atlas can reach the Moon or Venus.

Kraft A. Ehrliche, assistant to the chief engineer at Convair: "We can put a man in space with the Atlas with special precautions to keep him alive."

Wells Notified Of Contract Cancellation

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—John F. Wells, the man in the middle in the Alford-Hays election controversy, was notified yesterday of the cancellation of a $10,000 state printing contract. Wells charged the action was politically inspired.

The contract was for the Daily Legislative Digest, a day-by-day report of actions of the General Assembly of which Wells has published under state contract since 1949.

Notice of cancellation of the $10,000 contract was given by the House Efficiency Committee. The Senate earlier had notified Wells that it desired the services of the Digest as before.

Wells charged that the House committee's decision stemmed from objections of some representatives to the Arkansas Recorder, a weekly newspaper published by Wells.

It was through a protest filed by Wells that a U. S. House of Representatives committee recommended earlier this week that Rep-elect Dale Alford be denied a seat in Congress until his wife in election victory over Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) could be investigated.

Wells charged voting irregularities and said Gov. Orval E. Faubus was connected with what the publisher called a conspiracy in the election.

A letter to Wells from Arkansas House Speaker Glenn F. Walther of Pulaski County read:

"It was ascertained that the resume which has always appeared in the House Calendar could be expanded so that the members of the House could quickly ascertain the content of a bill and determine the status of a bill with minimum difficulty" without the Legislative Digest.

Walther said the elimination of the Digest in the House would save the state about $4,500.

Wells said Walther's estimated saving was "grossly exaggerated." He said the committee's decision would have no effect on the Digest's service to its 200 subscribers.

The Digest was first established in 1941. It operated for eight years without a state contract.

Can't Find a Motive for Student Killing

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Who had a reason to kill James Bullock, recent bridegroom, church worker, a clerk by day and a student by night?

That question still puzzled St. Louis police today as they sought the killer who shot Bullock with two guns Wednesday night.

Bullock, 27, was found about 7:30 p.m. lying in the street in front of the City Art Museum in Forest Park.

Another question also bothered officers. Mrs. Bullock, 23, said her husband left home to attend a class at the University of St. Louis Forest Park on an express highway.

Police questioned at length Dr. Glenn E. Engleman, a St. Louis dentist who was divorced 2½ years ago from Mrs. Edna Bullock, the victim's bride of six months.

Officers also questioned a den list of Dr. Engleman. The dentist said he was treating the man at the time Bullock was found dying.

Officers emphasized that neither Mrs. Bullock nor Dr. Engleman were questioned as suspects.

They said Dr. Engleman, who has remarried, told them he had seen Mrs. Bullock occasionally since their divorce. He said she had collected payments on the divorce settlement and received dental treatment.

Ex-Gov. Cherry Undergoes Surgery

Veterans Want to Keep Gen. Salan

ALGIERS (AP)—Gen. Raoul Salan, departing for Paris and a new post, today was besieged by 800 right-wing French war veterans shouting, "Stay with us, general, the civilians will betray us."

A group of bemuddled generals, aided by police, finally managed to lead Salan to his car.

Salan, the military commander in Algeria, took over control of the civil administration when right-wing colonists and officers rebelled last May against the Paris government. Premier de Gaulle is making him inspector general of national defense.

Atlas Missile Has Instinct of a Hunter

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Atlas is a missile with the instinct of a hunter.

It can—and Thursday night it did—steer into an orbit in chartless space.

Perhaps, as unofficial sources report, it can be a superaccurate military missile as well.

In fact, an industry source has indicated an Atlas can strike close to target—perhaps within a mile—at the end of a 6,000-mile flight.

The 85-foot missile made its first intercontinental trip just 22 days ago—spanning 6,325 miles from Cape Canaveral, Fla., to the coastal area of Africa.

Thursday night the Defense Department called the November test a precise demonstration of intercontinental capability for distances of more than 6,000 miles.

The Atlas probably costs something like two million dollars. In spite of its enormous size, it is said to be so delicate that you can drive a hammer into it with a good solid blow. Its thin walls act not only as fuselage, but also as fuel tanks.

Loaded for its space duties, it weighs about 122 tons.

The missile stands on concrete pedestals well over two stories high. Through these pedestals bends a long tunnel—a sort of horn of plenty with its small end ready to receive the fire of the Atlas engines.

When the missile blasts off the exhaust flames from the engines pour through the funnel—cooled by some 30,000 gallons of water a minute. Even then the flames sear almost the full length of a football field from the open end of the flame deflector.

Flame, steam and running water pour over the concrete spillway.

Then the missile begins to rise slowly from the pad—gradually gaining speed.

The two booster engines, churning out some 150,000 pounds of thrust each—and the central sustainer engine with another 100,000 pounds of thrust push the missile aloft.

After the big booster engines have burned their fuels, they shake off like two unneeded wings and the Atlas burns onward with its sustained engine alone.

Reds Demand Atom Arms Leave Korea

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The North Korean Communists today demanded that the U.N. Command immediately withdraw the atomic-capable Malsdorf guided missile and all other up-to-date weapons brought into South Korea in the past 18 months.

The U.N. Command immediately rejected the Red demands, made at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission.

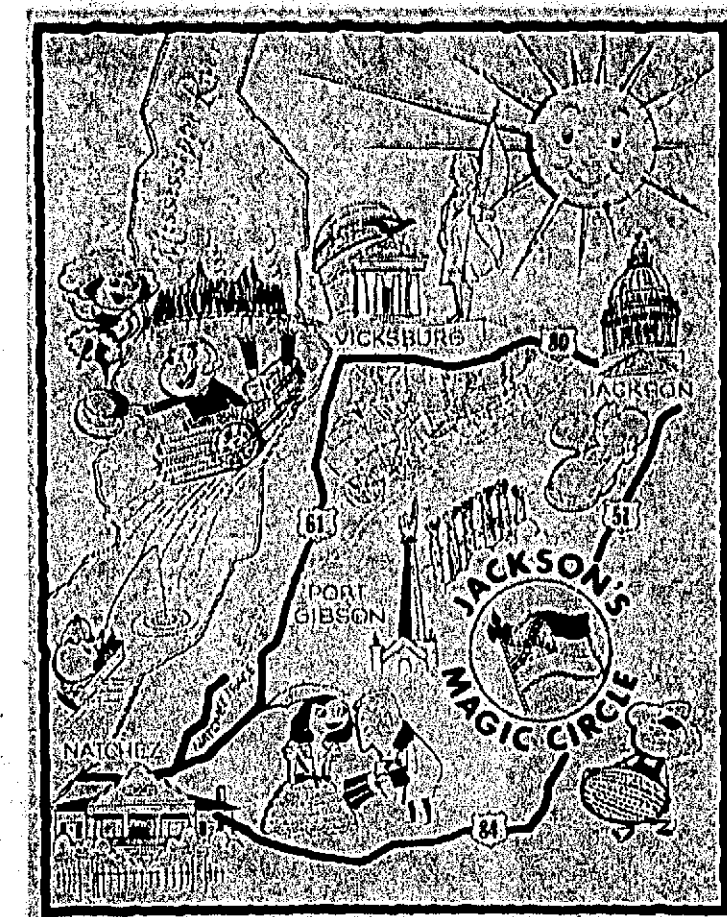

The Communist delegate, Maj. Gen. Kang Sang Ho, charged the transfer of the Malsdorfs and other new American weapons to South Korea violated the armistice agreement to introduce no weapons not in Korea when the fighting stopped.

The U.N. Command repudiated that clause of the armistice in June 1957, saying that the Communists had been violating it persistently and equipment in the South had to be brought up in date to meet the Red threat.

Mississippi's Capital Is Typical of the New South

MISSISSIPPI'S CAPITAL CITY of Jackson is representative of the New South, where growth is tempered with pride of heritage and history. The Magic Circle leads to Vicksburg and the national military park that enshrines Civil War heroes of the siege of 1863; the city takes on a festive air each year at showboat time. Other highlights include a drive along the beautiful Natchez Trace Parkway, which parallels the wilderness road of pioneer days. Natchez, famed in story and song, attracts nationwide attention today with its beautiful ante-bellum mansions and the Confederate Pageant during the annual Pilgrimage days.

Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of suggested highway tour maps which Hope Star will publish on a weekly basis. The series will cover the South and Southeast during the winter months, and the Northern sections in the spring. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

By EDWARD COOLIDGE

Mississippi's capital city of Jackson is the New South in word and deed.

The salesman at a service station near the Capitol was first of the civic boosters we were to meet. As soon as he started the pump he volunteered: "We hear about a recession in other parts of the country, but we don't know anything about it down here. We've seen to that, and without taking a breath, 'how do you like our city?'"

This pride is reflected everywhere in Jackson, a city with a keen eye on tomorrow but which still has retained the lovely old homes and public buildings as guardians of a proud heritage.

To feel this and to see Jackson at its best, start your Magic Circle drive in the downtown business section at dinner hour when the traffic is light. Dusk makes the multi-colored skyscrapers complete the historic edifices, which sit in dignity on cushions of green velvet, adorned by flowers and stately trees.

Proud Hall

Focal point is the 12-year old City Hall whose four-story, fluted white columns preside over the landscaped rose gardens. This ageless building was the only one spared in the three burnings which gave Jackson the name of "Chimneyville" during the Civil War.

Two blocks away, at the end of the city's main business thoroughfare, stands the Old State Capitol, scene of the 1861 Secession Convention. Here also spoke Jackson as Henry Clay Jefferson Davis and Andrew Jackson in whose honor the city was named. Now used as an office building, it is to be restored and converted into a museum. Beside the Old Capitol is a modern temple-like structure dedicated to peace and the Mississippians who died in war and defense of their ideals.

This circle of downtown civic pride includes the imposing new State Capitol on an immaculately landscaped knoll. Modeled after the U.S. Capitol, the entrance is flanked by a pair of statues of Liberty and Justice, an exact replica of the Liberty Bell and an unforgettable piece of statuary commemorating the heroic women of the Confederacy.

The gem, however, is the Governor's Mansion, a treasure of the ante-bellum era. Friendly lights from the windows illumine across the shaded lawns the garden of my favorite Rosemary, which this day square block in the heart of the bustling business district.

The structure has the same timeless beauty today as it had when it was built in 1842.

Drama Still Lives

The Magic Circle west U.S. 80 from Jackson leads through pleasant, prosperous farming country to historic Vicksburg, perched high on bluffs overlooking a hairpin bend of the Mississippi River.

Whether a student of history or a casual tourist, you quickly will be immersed in the drama that still lives in every part of the city from the decisive and bloody siege of

Peace Message By Ike Comes From Satellite

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's pride of the heavens soared high around the world today ready to send anew a presidential yuletide message of good will.

Jubilant architects of the four-ton Atlas said it would be early afternoon before they decide about retriggering their talking satellite to broadcast tape-recorded words from President Eisenhower.

The next step, when the scientists figure they have enough initial data in hand, will be to arise the message and send up another to be released by remote control as Atlas continues its travels.

This second phase of the pioneering project promised to point the way to a revolution in communications—mass transmissions of sound and pictures to anywhere on earth through a satellite network.

And in the hours following Atlas' mighty blastoff from its Cape Canaveral, Fla., launching site Thursday night, statesmen assessed its boost to U.S. strength in the great East-West struggle.

Atlas struck another propaganda blow for this country at 3:15 p.m. Friday when, zipping at 17,000 m.p.h. over Cape Canaveral, it rebroadcast as scheduled a short Eisenhower message recorded Tuesday and carried aloft in the nose cone.

"This is the President of the United States speaking," came the dramatic playback of Eisenhower's voice, through some static and fading as in the early days of shortwave.

"Through the marvels of scientific advances, my voice is coming to you from a satellite traveling in outer space."

"My message is a simple one. Through this unique means I convey to you and to all mankind American wishes for peace in earth and good will toward men everywhere."

Eisenhower himself, joined by his wife, Mamie, and their daughter, Iliana, pressed secretary James C. Hagerty to hear his voice on a Hagerty-supplied recording of the signal reaching Canaveral.

The President, in high spirits, fiddled with glasses in one hand as he listened intently. One sentence came through garbled "but it didn't hurt the message any," Eisenhower said. Hagerty supplied the full text.

Eisenhower said perhaps television-in-space would be the next astounding invention. He laughed when a woman suggested profit-making news conferences might be held that way.

Declares West Can Deliver Nuclear Blows

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Lauris Norstad said today many countries of his Western European Command now have the systems to deliver nuclear blows in case of war.

And the nuclear warhead stockpiles are being built up so that all these systems can get them, the supreme allied commander in Europe said.

Norstad was addressing members of Parliament from the Eastern European union—comprising Belgium, France, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, West Germany and Britain.

By systems, Norstad was referring to such potential nuclear warhead carriers as planes and submarines. He complained that the NATO council members of this week about European national delay in accepting U.S. intermediate range Ballistic Missiles.

Norstad told the meeting that unless NATO expresses a willingness and determination to use any means to stop even local aggressive incidents "I can almost guarantee you a suggestion of such incidents."

Norstad blamed politics for the difficulties in getting the manpower needed for adequate defense in Western Europe.

Norstad told the lawmakers he was aware of their domestic problems. "But I have seen countries take action with no rational reason except nervousness or deception. He said his own country was not immune to this tendency."

NATO Sees Visit as Political Gesture

PARIS (AP) — European NATO diplomats today viewed Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas L. Mikoyan's coming trip to America as a political gesture connected with the West Berlin crisis and a possible East-West summit meeting. They regarded the Soviet maneuver with mixed feelings of hope that it might "ease" tension, and in the 1920 U.S. census, the Arkansas population was 14,273.

Mickey Rooney and Patricia Brelin are the happy young-marrieds of "Andy Hardy Comes Home," which continues the famous Hardy Family series, with Mickey now seen as a family man but still the irrepressible Andy Hardy.

About Crows

That much maligned citizen of every state in the Union — the crow — has the outdoor public fairly well divided into two schools of thought concerning his desirability or lack of it. For some reason, you will find but few folks who know the outdoors to be in any way moderate in their views on crows. Either they admire the bird or they detest him — no half way measures in either case.

Without question, the crow is the smartest bird that flies. If any of our game birds — such as grouse, woodcock, quail or the wily old ringneck, had half the common sense that is the crow's heritage, our upland shooting would be drastically improved. No crow would be stupid enough to permit a dog to point him while the hunters walk in for the shot.

Of course, the crow receives credit for being the number-one hoodlum of the outdoors. In the spring, crows do much damage to nesting birds. But crows are not the only nest robbers. Opossums, skunks, red squirrels, chipmunks etc., do just as much damage as crows.

Farmers complain about crows making heavy inroads on newly planted corn. Well, maybe so. But some day take time to watch an old ringneck rooster walk down a freshly planted corn row. He won't miss a single kernel and he will keep going until his crop is filled to the bursting point with nice expensive seed corn.

We have our house on a six acre plot of land outside the city limits, next to the golf course. One acre is devoted to house and lawn; the other five grow wild and act as a small wildlife sanctuary. Along with other wildlife, there is a flock of crows that lives in this area.

Just let a predator, such as an owl, Cooper's hawk, hunting cat, etc., show up on our place and the crows let us know about it immediately. We don't shoot those crows as we figure they do more good, policing the place, than they do harm.

"Game crows" make interesting pets. To be sure, they are mischievous and they will steal and hide anything which happens to strike their fancy, but they are amusing and amazingly intelligent. With a little patience it is not difficult to teach a young crow to talk. Try to teach a captive grouse or ringneck to talk and see how you make out.

One of our damaging insect imports is the Japanese beetle. These hardshelled pests at first had no natural enemies in our country. Now a number of birds have learned how to utilize these insects as food. Among them the crow. I have watched our flock here parading up number six fairway, stuffing themselves with beetle grubs which they have learned to find among the grass roots.

To be sure, too many crows can be a threat both to farm crops and beneficial wildlife, such as upland game and song birds. For this reason, it is a good thing to thin down their numbers during the winter months. To say that they provide excellent wing shooting is to put it mildly. They are a definite challenge to any wing shooter.

Learning to hunt these birds successfully is a study in itself. Having the intelligence that they do, a hunter is often hard pressed to bring them within range of his gun. And what is more, once they are within that range, their erratic flight makes them exceedingly difficult targets.

Frankly, I would like to see the crow given some legal protection. There should be a closed season on him while he is nesting and raising his young. During the shooting season, he should at least be accorded the dignity of being game only for shotguns.

This business of feeding crows poisoned corn and dynamiting the roosts should not be allowed. Any one who makes a serious study of crow shooting can tell you that you can have just as much fun affording outwitting this clever bird as you can in any form of upland gunning.

In writing this, we realize that many who read it will not agree with us. Crows are vermin and should be treated as such. Just the same, if these crows were ever look the time to study the bird and to enjoy the wing shooting that he has to offer, their ideas may very well undergo considerable revision.

'Hasty Heart' Creditable Show of Month

TELEVISION IN REVIEW
By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — "The Hasty Heart," a 90-minute entry on CBS-TV Thursday night, was a creditable addition to the "du Pont Show of the Month" catalogue.

If I were to carp at all—and I always do—I would be to note that the John Patrick comedy-drama is not a very challenging theater piece. It has passed the test of commerce on Broadway and in Hollywood and is almost as failure-proof as basic black with pearls. Redrapping it for TV as a spectacular seems, somehow, excessively cautious.

However, on TV the viewer has to be grateful for prime time crumbs. And a fine, tasty, crumbly loaf this was.

Don Murray in the role of the doomed Scottish soldier turned in a carefully plotted performance that built block upon block. It's to Murray's credit that the climactic scene in which he turns pleadingly to his nonchalance with: "I want . . . to die," alone came off as believably as it did in less skillful hands. It could have been quite awkward.

The rest of the cast also was quite sound—Barbara Bel Geddes, Jackie Cooper, Barry Jones and a group of supporting players that included Richard Harris and Fred Gwynne, Rex Everhart and John McCurry.

Miss Bel Geddes' chubby purity was working full blast Thursday night and she graced her role with stilted, Cooper, presented with a part that teetered precariously on the edge of being two-dimensional, gave it in wholeness and bounce.

One further credit. To director Tom Donovon. One scene in particular stands out in my mind, as showing a strong directorial hand—the one in which Murray is told he is about to die. It was underplayed, delivered in pastel tones by the actors. The camera did all the emotional work, moving in for big, searching closeups. It came at a time when the proceedings needed a little subtle hinting and was a shrewd use of the medium.

Short Shots: ABC-TV's "Leave It To Beaver" turned in another warm and four-square job Thursday night. The show is certainly the most underplayed of all half-hour films. Ziva Rodan, the heroine in NBC-TV's "Behind Closed Doors" Thursday night, was an admirable construction, but I can't say as much for the play.

The Channel Swim: Phil Silvers pre-empted his own CBS-TV Friday show on Jan. 23 for a one-hour special. CBS-TV's "Playhouse 90" will kick off its 100th telecast Feb. 12 with "The Son and Man," a four-episode piece. War Is on Between Rice, Potatoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Is rice less fattening than potatoes. This could become a boiling issue in this national capital of controversy.

For Sen. Henry Dworshak, who comes from potato-raising Idaho, cried absolutely not yesterday and went on the warpath against what he termed false television advertising that rice is less fattening.

He demanded that the Federal Trade Commission put a stop to such claims by a rice firm — "this food fable has no place on the American video screen," he said.

A reporter, intrigued by the protest and impressed by Dworshak's own bulk, asked the senator for his personal specifications.

The answer: 6 feet 1 inch tall, 40 inches in the waist, 220 pounds weight.

Dworshak volunteered that he eats potatoes, Idaho variety, every day, but added quickly that that wasn't the reason for the midriff measurement.

"Potatoes are less fattening than rice," Dworshak said in a statement flanked up with plums for the Idaho side.

"I would advise weight watchers not to watch TV, but to continue to eat potatoes and keep slim and trim," he said at another point.

Still another of his plums said thousands of Idahoans who have eaten potatoes for years can match slimness with residents of any state — and know that no valid substitute can replace the Idaho potato.

Dworshak, head of Agriculture Department, had authority for a statement that 100 million of the cooked rice contain 115 calories while the same weight of potatoes mashed with milk contains 111 calories.

His Natal Day

... it is Christmas, the birthday of Jesus the Christ.
It is Hallelujah time ... a day when joyful reverence reigns in the hearts of His people. It is the hour for Carol singing and merry making in simple, serious celebration of the birthday of the Lord. Then, may your Yule-log burn brightly as you and yours jubilantly, in age-old custom, exchange gifts made possible through thought and treasure. Let us make merry but may we not forget to keep Christ in Christmas...

For unto us a child is born, and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty
God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.
